

Disrupting Thinking...

asking big questions of teaching and learning

Write Now! K-12 conference with Kylene Beers March 31, 2018

The Annual North Country Reading/Writing Conference is open to educators, administrators and literacy leaders from throughout New England and Eastern Canada. This year's conference is for educators at all grade levels and will focus primarily on reading.

Saturday, March 31, 2018

8:30 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Registration, book sales at 7:45 a.m.

Kennett High School

409 Eagles Way, North Conway, NH

Conference fee:
$45/registrant
$40 for teachers
from Arts Alliance
member schools
$35 for individual members

Fee includes morning snacks and lunch.

Presented in partnership by the Arts Alliance of Northern New Hampshire and Conway School District, and honoring the legacy of Don Graves, our 2018 conference features Kylene Beers, author of many highly respected books on literacy.

Kylene addresses a critical issue: Too many students remain disengaged and reluctant readers. The problem, she believes, is that we have misrepresented to students why we read and how we ought to approach any text, fiction or nonfiction.

In this conference, using her hallmark humor and practicality, Kylene will present her vision of what reading across all grade levels could be. She will focus on ideas for helping classroom teachers; hands-on-strategies offered will be immediately applicable, and turn-and-talk discussion points will provide context for school-wide conversations.

Staff development & continuing education certificates offered.

Visit www.aannh.org for additional details & to register.

Questions? programs@aannh.org or 603-323-7302

Books will be available for purchase. Stay to ski, hike, play — or shop! Participants will receive discounts at local lodging sites and coupons from North Conway outlets & businesses.

